REPUBLICANS SEEKING AID OF INSURGENTS

President Asked to Use Influence to "Pull" Up on Compromise
33 Per Cent Surtax
Minimum

FATE OF INCOME TAX REDUC- TION DEPENDS ON INSURGENTS

Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—The aid of Republican insurgents sought today by Republican organization leaders in the house in an effort to ward off defeat in a fight with Democrats over income tax rates. An attempt will also be made to have the president use his influence to line up Republicans who are out of sympathy with the organization stand for compromise on a surtax minimum of 33 per cent. Representative Longworth, Republican leader, is reported to be seeking a compromise below 40 per cent with insurgents who, if the vote with the Democrats on the surtax next week, will give the Democrats a majority.

FORD SEEKS SITE IN MAYS- VILLE—MAY LINK 2 ROADS

MAYSVILLE, Feb. 16.—Representatives of Henry Ford are in communication with the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce here seeking information on locations of land available for manufacturing purposes. It is thought this is the forerunner of the Ford interests to gain a footing here in order to have a terminal for the extension of his railroad, already surveyed to Aberdeen, Ohio, opposite here, to connect with the Louisville & Nashville at this point. An assembling plant for Eastern Kentucky may be established here if rail connections can be made.

LOCAL POLICE HELP FIND AUTO THIEVES

Many Cars Recovered Here in Recent Years—Stolen Autos Taken to Cities Now

The Middlesboro police department forms an important link in the national organization for the apprehension of automobile thieves. A number of cars have been recovered here and the thieves apprehended during recent years and Middlesboro is becoming known as an unsafe place to park a stolen car. Practically all police departments and detective and insurance agencies in cities north of here and east of the Mississippi river notify the local office when cars are stolen from their territory.

In addition to the frequent telegraph and telephone communications made regarding stolen cars, a number of cards containing descriptions of stolen motor vehicles are received and posted at the police office daily. Officers are ever on the alert for stolen cars, and frequently find those which come through Middlesboro. It is believed that auto thieves make for the larger cities after making their first haul, there being great chances of escape in the numerous cities and towns. Like this, there are many who are watched and officers are alert throughout the section. Another trick used by the organized professional thieves is that of having a confederate garage operator who will conceal the stolen car until it is ready to come out.

WILSON PLANNED RESIGN IN 1914

Tumulty Says President Was Incensed
Over Legislation Repealing
Panama Tolls

By Associated Press
NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—The Brooklyn Eagle today publishes a letter from Joseph P. Tumulty, former secretary to the late Woodrow Wilson, stating that Wilson was determined to resign as President in 1914 if Congress did not accede to his demand for legislation repealing the Panama Canal tolls. The letter quotes Wilson having said "I would not want to be President of a country that would violate a solemn treaty. In case of failure in this matter I shall go before the country after my resignation is tendered and ask it to say whether America is to stand before the world as a nation that violates contracts as a mere matter of convenience."

ENGLAND PLANS FARM BLOC NOW

Spurred on by Successes of Farmer
Party Here, Great Britain
Would Follow

LONDON, Feb. 16.—Spurred on by the presence of a Farm Bloc in our Congress and by the election successes of a Farmers' Party in some of the great wheat states, agricultural leaders of Great Britain are preparing to launch a real live rural party. It will have its own candidates for Parliament and they will act together, just as other political parties, Sir Herbert Matthews, for 20 years secretary of the Central Chamber of Agriculture, is one of the founders of new party.

"Nearly every civilized country in the world has a political party that looks after the farmers' interests," says Sir Herbert. "So it is time Great Britain got in line."

Out of 900-odd constituencies for the House of Commons, there are some 70 that are wholly rural and nearly 100 more in which agriculture predominates. We have, therefore, the chance, when we are well organized, to capture a big block of votes in the House of Commons and thus secure a strategic position of great value.

"Our objectives will be in the main: first—Maximum economic production from the land and maximum employment on it.

Second—A living wage and better conditions of life for the rural worker.

Third—The organization of agriculture and its allied industries.

Fourth—Laws which will make agriculture flourish and thereby bring prosperity to the rural communities.

"Our program would envisage a control of imports, a law enforcing a minimum wage for farm workers, and the gradual development of small holdings by means of real credit facilities.

This would mean the creation of land purchase banks, enabling occupiers to purchase their holdings.

"So the two things for which we would fight would be:

First—Rigid control of importations of outside farm products.

Second—Immediate creation of the credit facilities."

To Europe In a Day Predicts Inventor

DAYTON, O., Feb. 16.—The airplane never will take away any of our present-day transportation comforts. It merely will help us out in emergencies when speed is what we want most.

This cheering news for us poor landlubbers comes from no less a person than Anthony H. G. Fokker, Europe's foremost aeronautical expert, whose commercial planes are flying today between the great capitals of the old world.

The enterprising little Dutch inventor, still under 35, who designed and built the famous Fokker planes, is in this country on business.

"Aviation still is in its infancy," he declared in one of his brief moments between conferences.

"It would be foolhardy for me to venture a prophecy. Yet I do believe the next five or ten years will see Americans flying to Europe in 24 hours or even less."

"But we shouldn't be too idealistic. The automobile didn't supersede the train, the wireless didn't replace the telegraph. Neither will the airplane edge out our present forms of travel and communication."

"It merely will supplement them. When a man wants to get some place in a hurry, he'll go by air. When he wants to ship an important package in a hurry, he'll send it by plane. If he has plenty of time, the old order of things will suit him."

The American business man will be computing through the skies from his suburban home to his city office, only after municipal officials and chambers of commerce provide suitable landing facilities, Fokker said.

And real progress in aviation depends solely upon the co-operation of government and business, he believes.

Heating Stove—Mother At Commissary

Lee Shipley, age 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Shipley, was burned to death Thursday when his clothing caught fire from a heating stove at their home in the Mingo camp.

His mother had gone to the commissary, a short distance away at 10 o'clock in the morning. Lee and two other small children were left at the house. According to reports, the boy lit a paper at the stove and his clothing became ignited. He ran into the yard, the flames enveloping his body.

Mrs. Ed Shipley, the boy's aunt, was attracted by the screams of the children and came to the boy's assistance. The clothing was all burned from his body by this time. The boy died at 3:30 Thursday afternoon.

The remains were shipped to Speedwell, Tenn., yesterday and interment took place in the cemetery there.

MANY ENJOY DUVAL MAGI- CIANS HERE LAST NIGHT

Quite a large crowd was present last night at the school auditorium to enjoy the performance of the Duval Brothers, magicians. Proceeds above expenses will go to the school library.

A large part of the program consisted of the old line tricks of magic which cease to confound the mind of the lay man who sees them. A number of tricks were played with children several of whom were called to the stage to take part. As the greater part of the audience was made up of school children, most of the stunts were played for their benefit.

The most interesting and most attractive of all were the "rag pictures" made by the magicians with old cloths so arranged as to make a beautiful picture.

Greene of Vermont Shot Through Head Last Night by Dry Agents Pursuing Lawbreakers—Situation Now at Crisis

IMMEDIATE ACTION TO CURB VIOLATIONS EXPECTED

By Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—Senator Greene of Vermont was shot in the head last night while passing an alley near the Capitol in which two men were fleeing from prohibition agents. He was said by physicians to day to be in a "very satisfactory condition."

After an X-ray examination physicians announced the bullet which struck Greene over the eye had not remained in his head. The discovery regarded extremely encouraging.

The prohibition situation here for months has been the center of controversy. As the result of the shooting of Greene, the whole middle seems likely to have a thorough congressional airing. The incident is not the first in which the lives of those on the streets have been endangered by pistol battles with bootleggers.

Mad chases of that kind have been numerous and there have been a number of accidents to bystanders.

The whole question is complicated by the three-cornered run, joined in by prohibition agents, officers of the treasury department and city police who made charges against each other in connection with bootlegging operations.

While all this has been in progress, charges of liquor buying by high officials, and ordinary citizens alike, have been on the increase. There have been repeated demands in Congress for investigation of this grotesque picture.

zation of Washington, floating on a sea of rum which has been widely published. Every move for public inquiry has been blocked for one reason or another. Today it was apparent that the shooting of Greene had stirred officials and many of his colleagues said they were now ready to demand action.

A Thought

Behold also the ships, which though they be so great, and are driven of three winds yet they are turned about with a very small helm, whither ever the governor listeth.—Jas. 3:1.

We have more power than will; and it is often by way of excess to ourselves that we fancy that things are impossible.—Rochefort.

THE VANDERLIP LIBEL

For the life of us, we cannot see any connection between the sale of his station star by the late President Harding and the naval oil reserve leases under inquiry at Washington. If Mr. Frank A. Vanderlip drew President Harding's name into the scandal on the basis of mere gossip and rumors, as he says, and knows nothing more than he has stated—if he has no proof to substantiate the rumors to which he has given body and nationwide circulation by his (in that case) reckless and malicious speech there is no condemnation to reserve for an honest and just public opinion to visit upon a scandal-monger, who dare blow a befuddling breath upon one who had filled the highest office in the gift of the American people. Mr. Vanderlip's name is fair game for the American people—all are concerned; in the breath of slander that presumes to assail it each and all of us are shamed and humiliated.

That President Harding officially committed an error in authorizing and sanctioning of the Teapot Dome and other oil reserves from control of the navy and from government ownership and control there can be no question. But the suggestion that there was anything graver than an error of judgment—that there was any motive affecting the late President's personal and private purity of purpose in the course he pursued even his political foes must repel and resent and challenge his refusal to make good or to recant his reflections on their President, who is not here to defend himself, and demand that he stand pilloried in the stocks of public opinion for his outrageous and shocking words.—Knoxville Sentinel.

DRAW INSPIRATION FROM THIS

Asked to offer suggestions as to what "qualifications" young people should strive for in order to fit themselves for responsible positions in public and business life, one of our greatest national industrial leaders and students of human nature, drawing from his fund of knowledge gained through sixty years of study and contact with persons in every walk of life and in every country, says: "Business geniuses, like my successful statesmanship, are not taught. They are created. Every man of great achievement carries far beyond anything which he ever learned except in the hard school of experience, added to Heaven-given endowment."

The average teacher, preacher, writer of theses, college professors and thousands of others who are ready to tell twenty others what "were good to be done" are as a rule pignions in comparison with such men as Washington, Franklin, Lincoln, Bonaparte, Mussolini or other men of great industrial achievements, like Rockefeller, Ford, etc. They were not taught, nor given any rule of procedure, nor did they follow a chart. With their Heaven-given endowments they blazed their own trail, and immediately stepped into an arena unaided by any writer of formulas.

The stride of such men and their accomplishments are beyond the reach and grasp of the imagination of those whose function in life is to teach how such things should be done. The men who become great leaders and rise to the heights were not taught what they should do, or how they should do it, nor in most cases did they start with any conception of their future. They started to make the best of their endowments, and then a personal conscience, seeing opportunities and indefatigable work, did the rest. No man ever did much work by any mechanical chart, or depended upon what he was taught in school or from the pulpit.

The successful young man, instead of giving heed to mechanical and formulated directions, is working out his own problems, and he only succeeds by going further and accomplishing more than anybody who has ever preceded him in a like field of endeavor. The writer of theses or teacher is limited in his sphere by what he has learned of what has gone before.

"Qualifications" are endowments and they cannot be taught. Qualifications are the very foundation of every great life, and no teacher can create qualifications.

"I think that the experience of all men who have accomplished much is that whenever a teacher or advisor intervenes with lessons as to how they should accomplish their task, or whether they should undertake their task at all, the result has been a weakening, not a strength, and to the extent to which such counsels were heeded, inspired work was chilled and measurably paralyzed."

Young Women Traveling Alone

Editor Daily News:
The Travelers' Aid Society sends out the following advice to young women who travel alone, which I hope you will print:

1. Don't start for a strange city even for one night, without information about a safe lodging place.
2. Don't leave home without money enough to meet an emergency or enough for a return ticket.
3. Don't ask or receive information from a strange man or woman.

THIS LITTLE WORLD

LONDON, Feb. 16.—The average American, reading of the British victor over the Germans, probably thinks the Joffre or Poch, but Marshal Petain, average Englishman is a booze-soak. However that may be, here's a good sort of individual. The truth is, almost everyone you meet is pretty drunk, but the stuff he is soaked with is—tea—plain, stimulating, but very sober tea.

If we are the greatest coffee drinkers, the Germans the greatest beer drinkers, the French the greatest wine drinkers among the white races, then the Briton tops us all with tea. He can't do without it. It is his standby morning, noon and night.

Afternoon tea is universal in England. People of all classes of society knock off for their cup. I have seen old men, who sell newspapers on the streets drinking tea on the sidewalk. The myriad cheap restaurants of London was far serving "dainty teas."

In all the theatres, at all matinees, the show starts to find out whether you want tea served between the second and third.

If tea has got all the tannin in it the doctors say it has, the innards of all our British friends must have been converted into tough leather long ago.

Accept advice or directions only from police, or railroad officials, or Travelers' Aid representatives at the depot.

1. Do not accept offers of positions either from individuals or through investigation thru city authorities, ministers of your denomination, or the Travelers' Aid, before you start from home.

2. Never go to any house, restaurant, place of amusement or enter any conveyance at the suggestion of a strange man or woman. Do not be deceived by seeming politeness.

3. Never go into a strange city and alone enter a public taxi at night.

4. If you arrive in a strange city and friends fail to meet you, or if you are ill or in distress call for a Travelers' Aid Society. If the town is small and there is no safe place to stay, if you miss your train, stay in the depot till the next train departs.

A SUNNY RIDDLE

And Jack o' Lantern on top of a post

"The laziest fellow I ever knew—And off he dropped—not a minute to lose. Lay in a cornfield and grew and grew, But there came just then the farmer's good wife, With (what do you think?) a long, sharp knife!"

"The next day Lazybones stretched with a yawn, 'My goodness!' he cried, 'The winter's gone! I never in all my life was so hot, Or perhaps it's a fever that I've got!'"

"When all that he saw were six round pies, 'I knew it!' he cried, 'I'm more than the sun. For I am fix' and he is but one!'"

"And Jack o' Lantern on top of a post, Just grinned at hearing so silly a boast, 'Why I am only an empty head, But I know much better than that,' he said."

"Well, what's the answer, everybody?" asked the Riddle Lady when she had finished.

Peter was the one to reply. "I think it's as easy as rolling off a log," he declared. "It's a pumpkin!"

Even Nick and Nancy kept quiet, for like everybody else, they felt that Peter Peter had a right to the prize.

And this is what it was. A fine large pumpkin pie, Mister and Mrs. Pumpkin-Eaters had it that night for dessert.

Long I Have Held Communion With the Hills

Long I have held communion with the hills
And sought to learn the lessons they would teach,
Long I have heard the music of their speech
And felt their silence stir me with strange thrills.
Long I have watched them climb to touch the blue
And hoped to garner something of their calm.
Long I have found in them a healing balm
For every sorrow which has come to view.
At last I know the secret of their peace,
Know why they clamber toward the banks of cloud
As fair today as when they first were made;
They trust in God alone, years but increase
Their strength, and when earth's storms rage long and loud
Resting in Him, they can not be afraid.

PRESBYTERIANS SEEK SEEK BIG BUDGET

Would Raise $1,750,000 in Two Hours
 March 16—Middlesboro's Share $18,000

MEMPHIS, Feb. 16. — Southern Presbyterians plan to raise $1,750,000 within two hours on March 16 to meet the annual budget arranged for church benevolences for 1924.

This announcement was made today by R. C. Long, of Chattanooga, associate secretary of the board of stewardship, at a conference with ministers and representative laymen of the Memphis Presbytery.

Dr. Long outlined tentative plans for the annual "every member" canvass to be undertaken on that day.

The budget includes $1,581,750 for foreign missions; $760,000 for home missions; $356,250 for Christian education and ministerial relief; $95,000 for publication and Sunday school work; $28,500 for the American Bible society; $28,500 for general assembly training schools and $1,000,000 for synodical Presbyterian and local activities, including educational work, mission churches and other enterprises.

The slogan adopted was "nine dollars per minute in 1924." The budget reports a per capita contribution of $10.30 per member. It was pointed out that an average contribution of 25 cents a week from each member will more than exceed the desired amount. Contributions for last year will exceed those of 1922, it was said, when the per capita contribution was $13.20. Compilation of the 1923 contributions, however, has not been completed.

Middlesboro Presbyterian Church's budget last year was between $17,000 and $18,000 and promises to be approximately the same this year.

HOLLAND'S QUEEN RELIEVES DISTRESS OF NEEDY CHILDREN

By Associated Press
 SCHWARTZBURG, Thuringia, Feb. 16.—Queen Wilhelmina of Holland and her consort, Duke Henry of Mecklenburg, are caring for many needy children in the Schwartzburg district. They have been instrumental in having many poor Thuringian children sent to Holland for summer vacations with well-to-do Dutch families which could provide them with fats and other foodstuffs which were lacking in Germany.

Duke Henry recently visited the Prince of Schwartzburg at his castle in this little health resort, where Queen Wilhelmina passed much of her childhood. The little Dutch princess, before she became of age, regarded Schwartzburg as her second home. Her mother, Princess Emma of Waldeck-Pyrmont, left the child here in the mountains while she ruled Holland as regent.

PINEVILLE MAY HAVE NEW POSTMASTER SOON

PINEVILLE, Feb. 16.—Calls for examination for applicants for the postmasterhip at Pineville is expected to be made here in the near future, according to word received here from an authentic source. It is understood that Postmaster L. C. Mackley, whose term of office expires in May, will not be an applicant in the examination.

Under the present ruling, as started by the late President Harding and continued by President Coolidge, the postmasterhip is awarded to one of the three highest applicants in the examination. Mr. Mackley, who is a Democrat, probably will be succeeded by a Republican of Bell county though no predictions or announcements along this line have been made.

Germany's mercantile fleet has increased from 500,000 tons in June, 1920 to 2,500,000 gross tons today.

Oswatimie, Kans.—Mrs. E. E. Keast, formerly of Illinois, residing here, says: "We moved to this state eleven years ago, and I had good health for a long while; and then some year or so ago I had a bad sick spell."

"I got so weak I couldn't go. I couldn't stand on my feet at all. I had to go to bed. I suffered a great deal. I was so nervous I felt I couldn't live. I tried medicines, and everything, but the best of attention, yet I wasn't able to get up. I lay for three months, not able to do anything."

"My husband is a bill poster and has circulars distributed. One day there came to be a Ladies Birthday Almanac among his circulars. I read it, and told some of the family to get me a bottle of Cardui."

"I quit all other medicines and took it (Cardui) faithfully, and in two weeks from the time I began to take Cardui I was out of bed—better than for months."

"I kept it up and continued to improve until I was a well woman."

BLACKSTONE THE MAGICIAN PLANS STYLE SHOW HERE FOR MIDDLESBORO WOMEN

Middlesboro women will have an opportunity to see garments of latest styles at the Manning theatre Monday night, in connection with the magical performances of Blackstone, of every woman and will not be at modern wizard whose mystifying it all dull to the eye of "mere man."

lusions border on the occult.

This will be the greatest style show ever offered in Middlesboro and its unique setting will render it one of the most interesting and beautiful. For the first time here, the aid of magic has been invoked to display the latest creations from the eastern markets—new designs of spring cloth.

The exact manner of showing has not been revealed but it is understood that the magic surrounding the display will be commensurate with the other acts of the magician, that the charm of the garments and the models will be accentuated by the unique manner in which they are shown.

Apparently conjured from nothing, they will materialize in dazzling flames of light on the stage; they will appear as only Blackstone can create his characters from "the airy nothing." They will all be real live models, girls that are popular with Middlesboro people. The identity of all of the models has not been disclosed yet.

In addition to the fashion show, which will, in itself, be a genuine treat, there will, of course, be the astounding feats of magic by the incomparable Blackstone.

Merchants who will promote the style show by having the latest modes of dress displayed on living models are G. H. Talbott's, Wise Specialty Shop, Harry E. Verran's and A. D. Campbell's. Gushong's who had previously planned to take part in the show have announced their intention of not doing so by reason of the fact that they could not get their models from St. Louis and Chicago.

The A. D. Campbell store will have an elaborate showing of Wooltex dresses, suits and coats. There will be attractively displayed by living models.

The Talbott store will display six gorgeous evening gowns of the very latest pattern. There, it is expected, will form a dazzling and scintillating show of beauty in the unexcelled magic light.

Miss Hallie Wise, of the Wise Specialty Shop, will return from New York America's center of fashion, with a variety of attractive and modish spring garments from which she will select six for the display.

The Verran's store is having a special order of attractive clothing, a part which will be displayed in the fashion show. Among these will be number of tasteful children's garments.

NASHVILLE ENTHUSIASTIC OVER BLACKSTONE SHOW

The following comment on the Blackstone magician performance appeared in last week's Nashville, Tennessee:

Blackburn at the Orpheum all week is the best magician who has been in Nashville since some old legendary of childhood, such as Heron, the Great, who stood on the Vendome stage regally talking to his audience while he slowly twisted a rose in one hand. The flower grew larger than a tub and finally a big white goose jumped from the rose.

Blackstone can even do better than that. He can make a 900 pound horse disappear in thin air. He can take the place of a member of his company, changing costume right before your eyes, but you don't see it. He is the cleverest card trick-er who has been to Nashville since the local gambling colony was cleared by a city slicker when the Southern turf saloon was in its glory.

The magician has the largest company of any magician who ever appeared before a Nashville audience. It includes several shapely girls and a small army of vassals who fetch the cards, the tumbler, and all the mysterious paraphernalia of the dealer in the black arts. There is also a good-sized orchestra.

The Monday evening audience at the Orpheum was charmed at Blackstone, who is certainly not as dull as his great-grandfather who wrote the commentaries. This Blackstone keeps up a running fire of patter. The audience entered into the spirit of the thing and had a great time, especially the numerous members in the audience of the American Legion. Blackstone made a great hit. He offers a full evening of clean and clever entertainment all week.

JUNIORS PRESENT CHAPEL PROGRAM

Oratorical Contest for Kiwanis Prize to Be Held on May 2

The Junior Class presented a very enjoyable program in chapel yesterday morning. The hit of the program was a mock teacher's meeting. Prominent characters in this were Clifford Carmany as Professor Bradner and Virginia Brosheer as Mrs. Moss. Other interesting numbers were a vocal solo by Miss Charline Gagle and two numbers by a boy's quartet.

The Senior Class selected their rings this week, after examining a great many samples. The rings are expected to arrive in about three weeks.

It was announced this week that the oratorical contest for the Kiwanis prize will be held May 2. Several students from the Junior and Senior classes are contemplating this contest.

Earl Stone, a member of the basketball team, was not at school this week and could not make the trip to Maryville on account of an injured foot.

P. V. H. S. PRINCIPAL RED HILL SPEAKER

Students Enjoy Professor's Talk—Much Sickness in Powell Valley

POWELL VALLEY, Feb. 16.—Prof. Homer Wallace, principal of Powell Valley High School, visited the Red Hill School on Valentine Day. The pupils were enjoying a Valentine shower after a pleasing and appropriate program. Prof. Wallace accepted the invitation of the teachers to give a talk. He spoke interestingly, emphasizing particularly the importance of having efficient teachers in the primary and grammar grades as these are the foundations. He also spoke of the importance of getting started out right, of forming good habits during early childhood. He illustrated the difference in salary of the uneducated, of those who go only to the high school, of those who go through high school and of those who specialize on some particular work. The contrast was made very clear to the pupils.

The Red Hill students observed Lincoln Day with a good but brief program. Lincoln's pictures occupied prominent places in the building that day. A paper, treating of his life and character was read by Horace McNew. Another boy had collected a number of anecdotes which were related and a query box was the last feature of the highly enjoyable program.
